Winter weighs you down? Spring fever has taken hold of you? There's only one way to remedy this: after 3 years of absence, Montreal's Orchidexpo is finally coming back to its new premises at CEGEP Ahuntsic. For the 39th edition, Les Orchidophiles de Montréal are proud to welcome renowned orchid producers from Asia, North America and South America, Montreal's Botanical Garden which has one of the finest orchid collections in the world, and members of Canadian Orchid Societies whose personal collections rival those of the pros. All will exhibit their most beautiful blooming orchids and submit them to the American Orchid Society (AOS) judging whose quality standards are among the highest in the world. Also on display will be fragrant orchids, Ikebana cut flower arrangements, artwork and orchid photographs. All horticulture and flower lovers are invited to come celebrate the return of spring and admire biodiversity at its best, featuring thousands of flowering orchids on March 25 and 26, at CEGEP Ahuntsic.

It's a date!
